THE NEW SUMMER DRINK.

COLD BOVRIL AND SODA WATER.

DR. ANDREW WILSON, in the "Daily Express" of July 24th, has an interesting article on

"WHAT SHALL WE DRINK?"

in which he says—
"The great question of these tropical days is 'What Shall We Drink?' I think all medical men are agreed that the less alcohol we consume in hot weather the better for us. Even light beer will be preferable in this sense to ordinary ales, and stout is not to be thought of if we wish to keep moderately cool."

"For those who are engaged all day let me recommend a novel combination—I mean a little Bovril (cold of course), made in the ordinary way, and added soda water. I have found this drink sustaining and pleasant."

DEATH.

At Bombay, on the 26th September, in the afternoon, FALANJI FRANJI TALATI, aged 62, older brother of FORTUJI FRANJI TALATI, of Hongkong. Deeply regretted. By telegram.

LONDON OFFICE: 131, FLEET STREET, E.C.

HONGKONG, October 1st, 1900.

WHAT with the dissolution of Parliament and the opening of a direct cable line from Tientsin to Gutzlaff, we in China are left to outside indications for our knowledge of the progress of affairs in the North. From these indications we seem to be justified in the conclusion that the difference of opinion between the Powers has now amounted to an open divergence. On the one side stand Germany, England, and apparently Japan—we say, apparently, because Japan has been seeking to pursue a course of her own in minor matters—and on the other, more or less united, Russia, France, and the United States. The other Powers according to their private sympathies are prepared to follow the lead of one or other of these divisions. Of course we should be wrong were we to affirm that the United States were consciously following the lead given by Russia, and the Government at Washington would be the first to repudiate such a suggestion; but the fact remains that, explain the cause however it may, Russia is certainly taking advantage of the position in America to advance her own altogether selfish aims. The United States have an enormous constituency, and all the defects of a large constituency are enormously developed. Every voter in the Union is supposed to have a definite knowledge on every subject of interest to the country, and on no subject is the ordinary citizen more thoroughly convinced of his ability to form an opinion than on this of the relations of the Union with all foreign nations. The class of men who have practical experience in the very complicated foreign relations of the country are unfortunately very limited, more so than in most European nations, because the States have not yet seen the necessity of training a diplomatic service, and the consequence is that every fourth year, pending the Presidential election, the foreign relations of the nation are left for a term to the blind intuitions of the mass politician. However well the President and the Secretary of State may comprehend the position, in the ordinary course they are for some four months in the hands of the wire-pullers, and have to obey their more or less despotic orders. A comparatively small section of the people really controls the issue of the election, and it is to catch the waverers, rather than the men of sound judgment, that every effort has to be made. America, equally with England, suffers under the tyranny of party cries, and the cry most frequently heard is that of the "anti-imperialists," that is of men who honestly fear that the extension of the foreign possessions of the States may result in such an alteration of the institutions of the nation as to seriously jeopardise its stability. This cry is sure to be heard at the hustings, and the attempt is being widely made to associate a forward policy in China with the results of the Spanish war in the Philippines. At another time this feeling would lead to make America join hands with England and Germany in opposing the policy of partition, but in the present instance, through want of reasoning power amongst the masses, it actually is tending to strengthen the opposite party. While this is undoubtedly the actuating motive in America, a very similar position in England induces the British Government to delay exposing its policy. As in the States a General Election takes place within a few weeks through the United Kingdom, and the Government is concerned to meet the country under the most favourable terms. The appeal is confessedly on the policy of the Government in South Africa, and not unnaturally it is trying to simplify this appeal, and reduce it as much as possible to the one issue. While there is a general consensus with regard to the policy to be carried out in the recent republics, men's minds are not so uniform as to the measures to be adopted in China; and Lord Salisbury's Cabinet seek rather a general approval of their attitude than any definite expression of opinion. The broad outline that its policy is to be opposed to annexation and separate spheres has been sketched out, but of the measures proposed and the method intended of putting them in action no word has been permitted to escape. Unfortunately Lord Salisbury is felt to be weak, his whole policy with regard to China has been a mistaken one, and his entire efforts have been devoted to getting a complacent House to give him a free hand. As far as can be judged from present appearances the Governmental majority in the House is not unlikely to be even further increased, and under certain circumstances this is a point for congratulation. The Opposition is hopelessly divided, but fortunately the strongest party amongst the many into which it is divided are favourers of a strong Imperial policy. Judging from previous experience the effect on the House will be to make a new division of parties, and will not improbably lead to a rapprochement between the more confirmed Imperialists of the Governmental party and the similar section of the Opposition. Such, as long as Government is carried on by party, must always be the fate of a party which has attained any great predominance, and such will doubtless be the case in the new Parliament. It is dangerous to prophesy in such a case, but the indications point to some such modification, and the enforced retirement of the less active members of the present Cabinet and their replacement by one or more of their opponents, who have been gradually working to the front. The divisions of party have ceased to be along the lines brought into being by the original Reform Party and accentuated by a Gladstone. Matters which would have divided the old parties to their lowermost depths have been decided in the last Parliament without arousing a party feeling; and the most radical of measures have been brought forward by, and warmly supported by, the most confirmed Tories. Such are the circumstances under which the fifteenth Parliament of Queen Victoria is being summoned, and we can only hope that it will lead the way to a better judgment of the importance of the issues pending in the Far East.

The French mail of the 27th August was delivered in London on the 27th ult. During the 24 hours ended on Saturday at noon one death from bubonic plague was reported. The total deaths since January 1st number 1,010, the total cases being 1,068. A pork butcher who has been several times convicted of selling fresh pork outside the markets was taken before Mr. Haselard on Saturday for again offending in this respect. He was fined £25, or two months.

On Friday afternoon a Chinaman who was about to get on board the launch for Kong Mun was stopped and searched. He was found to have a revolver, a dagger, and 50 rounds of ammunition on his person. He told Mr. Haselard on Saturday that he was an ex-ricshaw coolie, but had sold his rickshaw and was returning home. He was fined $50, or two months.

A most interesting discovery was recently made by the Bangkok "Spirit Farm Guards" in their patrols for illicit stills. Buried behind the Roman Catholic Church they found eight jars of prepared molasses, whilst close by three large barrels of the same stuff were discovered covered over with grass and straw. Close by the priest's house was a furnace with a still on top. In no less a place than the church itself two large iron pans were found. In the house of the ascetic the party found a jar of illicit spirits and various other suspicious articles, whilst in that of the caretaker of the priest's dwelling no less than 84 jars of alcohol were unearthed. Two Chinese, the ascetic and caretaker, were arrested, whilst the molasses were destroyed and the spirits handed over to the police.

Nearly 215,000 have been taken in Germany for the purpose of the military training in the expedition to China and of their relatives.

Three of the Boer prisoners, two Hollanders and one Scotchman, have been sent to jail for 56 days by a Ceylon Magistrate for refusing to allow an official to measure them.

A Japanese paper states that Russia has given another year's grace to the Japanese fishers in Baghaloo who will be affected by the operation of the regulations, which practically confine fishing rights to Russian subjects.

In consequence of the approaching departure of the Portuguese Consul at Shanghai, Mr. John Goodnow, the U.S. Consul-General, has been appointed the Doyen of the Consular Body in the Model Settlement.

Baron N. Kanda, a Professor in the Higher Commercial School of Tokyo, has reached New York on his way to London, whither he proceeds to investigate the English methods of instruction.

As a cargo boat laden with cargo was being towed towards the S.S. Anigo on Friday last one of the ropes broke and the boat capsized. The crew—seven in number—and five coolies were thrown into the water, and a girl six years of age and a coolie were drowned.

It is reported that the Indian Government has granted contracts to Canadian manufacturers for various supplies for the use of troops in China. This, it is thought, may involve some temporary addition to traffic receipts over the Canadian Pacific Railroad system.

Messrs. Lantz, Wegener, and Co. inform us that they have received the following telegram from the Captain of the steamer Calabria, dated Nagasaki, 26th September:—"We were run into by the Le Mars. Our ship sunk near Iwashiro on the 26th September."

According to a Washington despatch of the 1st ult., in consequence of the strain upon Russia's financial resources owing to the Chinese campaign, a specially accredited representative of the Russian Minister of Finance, Mr. de Witte, has concluded, or is about to conclude, "an arrangement with a syndicate of all the insurance companies in the United States for a loan of $30,000,000 roubles."

The steamer Rigun Maru, which left San Francisco on the 20th ult., carried 5,000 tons of cargo, mostly flour, which is in all probability to be used to feed the troops in North China. She did not take any cotton, for since the outbreak there has been no demand whatever for cotton, most of which has gone to North China. The falling off of this business will no doubt involve a big loss to southern mills, for it was a very large one.

Twenty wounded and invalided French soldiers have been discharged as cured from the Japanese military hospital at Hiroshima, and were brought here, says the Nagasaki Press. Forty French troops were also released from the local temporary French hospital on the same day. All of these soldiers, as well as eighty others from the French hospital ship Nie in the harbour, altogether 140 in number, have been sent home in the M.M. steamer Salsola.

The transport Belgian King, Captain Wells, sailed from San Francisco for Manila with a full cargo of commissary stores on the 28th August. About the same date the Egbert was ready to sail with a cargo of the same character for the troops in China. The Logan was to sail on the 1st ult., when the regular schedule would be resumed by the transports, with sailings every two weeks. It is expected that the transport Thomas will sail on September 16th. The Logan will touch both at Honolulu and Guam.

The Norwegian steamer Bergenhus, of 2,344 tons register, now on the Chinese coast, has been chartered by the California and Oriental Co., of this city, to take the S.F. Chloride, to bring a cargo of freight from Hongkong, Shanghai and Japanese ports to San Francisco, and the steamer will be due here early in October. All the regular steamers of the California and Oriental line have been chartered by the Government, and as the company was under contract to deliver freight here in October it was necessary to secure another vessel.

An order has been received at the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, to despatch 30,000,000 rounds of .303 in. ammunition, together with a large consignment of tent and hospital equipment to China. The small-arm ammunition to be sent out will fit both rifle and machine guns. The tent equipment was originally intended for the Volunteer Mobilisation, but has been diverted to meet the requirements in China. The various ammunition manufacturers in England have been requested to furnish as many .303 ball cartridges as they can possibly turn out. The Naval departments within the Arsenal are also busily engaged in despatching miscellaneous stores to the ships on the China station.

Close by the priest's house was a furnace with a still on top. In no less a place than the church itself two large iron pans were found. In the house of the ascetic the party found a jar of illicit spirits and various other suspicious articles, whilst in that of the caretaker of the priest's dwelling no less than 84 jars of alcohol were unearthed. Two Chinese, the ascetic and caretaker, were arrested, whilst the molasses were destroyed and the spirits handed over to the police.

Plague has again made its appearance at Osaka, Japan, and up to the time the last mail left six severe cases had been reported.

Mr. W. B. Carlos, H. B. M. Consul at Tientsin, has left Shanghai for England on account of ill-health.

The Gazette announces that His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to re-appoint the Hon. F. H. May, C.M.G., to be Vice-President of the Sanitary Board.

The Deputy Director of the China Inland Mission, the Rev. J. W. Stevenson, D.D., received a wire last week from a native helper at Shenai reporting the murder of missionaries at Yeh-yang, Shih-show, and Fa-ning, eleven in all, and two young children.

Shipbuilding is proceeding apace in Japan. The official trial of the second Nataga Maru took place off Tomposan, Osaka, a few days ago, and was a great success, the vessel steaming 13½ knots per hour. Her tonnage is 1,120. She was built at the Fujisagata Dockyard, Kikugaya, and is said to be the largest steamer built in Osaka up to the present.

Mr. Rounsvell Wildman, the U.S. Consul-General, has forwarded us the two following typhoon warnings, which were sent to him yesterday morning:—"Manila Observatory, 10 a.m.—Probably depression S. S. E. of Luzon between 8th and 10th parallels." Manila Observatory, 5.30 p.m.—"The depression is crossing South Luzon, between 9th and 11th parallels, and moving probably W. N. W."

Indian Constable 755 brought a charge of attempted bribery against a Chinese excise officer on Saturday. He declared that he was going to Aplethau the previous night when he met the defendant, who offered him 20 cents, saying "Don't arrest him; it's a small matter," referring to a man said to be in possession of opium without a permit. The evidence not being satisfactory Mr. Haselard discharged the defendant.

A fire occurred on Saturday morning in a small matchbox next to Mr. Nowrojee's garden, Timmatal, and the flames fanned by the strong wind that was prevailing at the time set fire to another, a larger matchbox next to it, used by the "Thirty" Tennis Club. Both structures were reduced to ashes in a very short time. The larger matchbox contained many tennis rackets and gear, furniture and wines belonging to the Club. The fire was, we understand, due to the carelessness of some of the gardeners cooking their morning meal.

At about a quarter to 12 on Friday night the attention of an Indian constable was drawn to a Chinaman near the Canton Wharf in Praya West. The man was bleeding from a deep wound in the skull. He was still alive and he was sent in an ambulance to the Tung Wah Hospital. He, however, expired on the way. At first the police thought that this was a case of murder and investigations were at once set on foot. They discovered that there had been no foul play, but that while gazing across at the fire at Mongkoktani he was struck on the head by a plank blown down from a scaffolding.

A march-out in connection with the Hongkong Volunteer Corps took place on Saturday afternoon. About 130 men paraded at Headquarters and proceeded to the Polo Ground at Causeway Bay with the guns for battery drill. On their return the Commandant (Lieut.-Col. Sir John Carrington, C. M. G.) addressed a few words to them. He regretted that the attendance had not been greater, and reminded them that the regular drill season would commence on the following Monday and urged all, particularly the recruits, to attend as many drills as possible during the next month so as to make themselves as efficient as possible before camp.

When the Sui-an left Shanghai on her last trip up river, says the Mercury of the 24th ult. It appears there were four pirates on board, and between Shanghai and Tung-chow, on the 18th inst., they, together with one of the ship's watchmen and one comrade's coolie, went through some of the passengers and had already taken two or three hundred dollars when the ship's officers appeared on the scene with small batons, and after thrashing them, put them all in irons with the exception of one, who jumped overboard. The Captain decided to carry them to Wuhu, where he handed them over to the Taotai.

THE PORTUGUESE FESTIVITIES AT MACAO.

[BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

On Friday last, the ancient and picturesque Portuguese colony of Macao put off its customary jubilation to celebrate the most enthusiastic and vivid scene of the birthday of its sovereign and his consort. It is a remarkable coincidence that the anniversary of the natal days of T. M. the King and Queen of Portugal fall on the same day, and this naturally added additional enthusiasm to the festive celebrations. Macao is renowned for its festivals, and on Friday the colony was en fête. The arrival of the military expedition from Portugal, and the presence of two Portuguese ships of war in the harbour have necessarily quickened social life in Macao, and the hitherto placid little colony now bears the aspect of an important garrison town. Soldiers and sailors are everywhere met with, and the martial appearance of the colony is emphasised by the trenches and other military works constructed and under construction for the protection of the city.

Although such preparations have been made to resist possible attacks from the Chinese, H.E. the Governor, in conversation with our representative, said he was perfectly at ease, and did not fear any anti-foreign outbreaks on the part of the natives, either in or around the colony. The Chinese on the mainland were in fact very friendly with the Portuguese authorities, and were very peaceably inclined. Still, he considered it necessary to take every precaution, and having been formerly a military engineer, he was able to see that the defences were adequate for protective purposes.

At noon on Friday H.E. José Maria de Sousa Horta e Costa, the Governor of Macao, received his nationals and a telegram of congratulation was sent off at 1 p.m. to His Majesty the King and Queen of Portugal.

In the afternoon His Excellency, attended by his staff, in the presence of many hundreds of spectators, received the troops. All the officers were in full uniform, and there were also present the commanders and officers of the British torpedo-boat destroyers, the Handy and Otter, which had been sent specially to Macao to salute the Portuguese flag on this occasion. The troops numbered nearly one thousand officers and men, and these were put on parade without lessening the usual number on the ordinary garrison duty. The spectacle was very animating, the uniforms of the Portuguese officers being very smart and attractive. The sections taking part consisted of infantry, artillery and a naval brigade from the men-of-war Adamaster and Saizre. The soldiers just arrived from Lisbon are a well-set up body of men, and could do doubt of useful work if called upon. They are attired in what is generally termed a "holland" uniform, with brown felt slouch hats, and top boots coming just below the knee. They are armed with magazine rifles and sword bayonets. The artillery men are all of good physique. The sailors presented also a smart appearance, and gave the idea that like the British handy men, they would prove good and useful fighting material. In addition to the European troops there were also on parade contingents of Indian and Chinese soldiers, the latter being very well drilled. The review passed off most successfully, and it also served the useful purpose of impressing the Chinese with a sense of the military preparedness. The officers in charge of the troops were Major F. P. Maher and Major A. Moraes Bessa Varnhagen, to whom credit is due for the success of the parade.

In the evening the Praya Grande presented a very festive appearance, the facade of the Governor's Palace being covered with coloured fairy lights and Japanese lanterns. All the public buildings were similarly illuminated, and at some distance from the shore, lying at anchor in deep water, was depicted in electric lamps the outline of the cruiser Adamaster, a very pretty effect. At 10 p.m. His Excellency gave a ball in his palace which was attended by about 800 guests, including the Portuguese military and naval officers, the officers of the British destroyers, several foreign consuls, civil officials, the leading civilians, and many ladies. A military string band was in attendance, and the entertainment was a pronounced success. The wants of the guests were attended to with characteristic Portuguese hospitality, a substantial supper being provided, and dancing was kept up to a very early hour in the morning. The programme of the ball was as follows:—Quadrilha, Valse, Lanciers, Valse, Quadrilha, Barn Dance, Lanciers, Valse, Quadrilha, Valse, Lanciers, Barn Dance, Quadrilha, Polka, Lanciers, Valse, Quadrilha, Galop. On Saturday His Excellency entertained the British naval officers at dinner. His Excellency and staff are extremely popular in the colony, and everyone seemed grateful for the festivities that had been provided and the opportunity given for a unanimous expression of loyalty. This is the third time His Excellency has administered Macao, having arrived there on his present term of office only a few weeks ago from Lisbon. His administration is said to be just and progressive. Apart from the recommendation to public esteem which this extremely cordials he is popular for his social proclivities.

It is seriously rumoured at Nijni Novgorod, says the Times correspondent at St. Petersburg, that the Russian Customs authorities at Irkutsk are detaining large quantities of tea destined for the Nijni fair on account of a suspicion that it has been poisoned by the Chinese. This rumour is having much a bad effect upon the wholesale tea trade that the committee of the fair has telegraphed to Irkutsk to make an inquiry on the subject. The chief cause of the delay or detention is most probably the mobilisation and movement of troops. Referring to the above the Ceylon Observer states:—"Now is certainly the time for Ceylon (and India) to score. We think this Military Committee ought to telegraph to Mr. Banton to drop everything else and concentrate his attention on Russia, going there at once."

THE FIRING UPON A BRITISH STEAMER AVENGED.

THE "SANDPIPER" STONED.

The river gunboat Robin proceeded to Lukian, near Kunchuk, West River, and bombarded the village in retaliation of the natives firing upon the British steamer Langkian, the gentry being also compelled to flee the guilty parties. Notices have been posted stating the reason for the punishment.

When the Sandpiper, which has arrived here, passed Shikwan, West River, the natives stoned her. It is reported that on the matter being reported to the British Consul at Canton he advised the Commander not to use force in retaliation.

Practically all the Grand Council have gone except Wang Wen Shao.

Another decree orders funeral honours in respect of Sagiyama, the Japanese Chancellor who was murdered at Peking.

There is a terrible famine in Shensi, and this probably prevents the court from going to Hsianfu.

SPORT AND ANECDOTE.

BY AN OLD FOOT.

GRASMERE SPORTS.

For pure, unadulterated enjoyment the festival annually celebrated at Grasmere would be hard to beat. The meeting has been held each year since 1843, when it was set on foot by some of the leading families of the district, and its fame long ago spread throughout the length and breadth of the land. Since its foundation athletic sports have sprung up all over the kingdom, but unfortunately many of these are of such a character that they cannot be recommended. They are too often accompanied by evils that have a degrading influence, and ought therefore to be avoided. The Grasmere festival, however, is something entirely different. The most attractive of the events are not to be found in a club gathering conducted on modern money-making lines, and from their very novelty they possess an interest that is thoroughly appreciated by the spectators. To begin with the scene of itself is "a thing of beauty." At the recent sports the country just about looked its best, and when the sun burst out at noon the picture as one gazed round upon the surrounding hills was such as can only be seen in lovely lakeland.
Heavy rain in the early morn had converted the streams in the hill-sides into miniature torrents, and the tiny cascades glistened as the water rushed along between the trees and among the boulders. There was a freshness and a health imparting vigour in the air that made one feel that it was good to be there, and it was an experience to cherish for many years to come.

A STIRRING SCENE.
Much, of course, could be said about Grasmere and its historical associations. Every lover of poetry knows that Wordsworth lies at peace in the village churchyard and that the poet's cottage is also near at hand. And then again the festival has always enjoyed the patronage of the nobility and other gentry, and has often been visited by some of our greatest men and women, from bishops downwards. At the meeting a few days ago the occupants of the grandstand included Mrs. Humphry Ward, Lord Cress, Canon Rawnsley, Lady Florence and Lady May Percy, etc. The presence of these aristocrats alone should be a guarantee that nothing shabby will either be attempted or permitted, nor is it. On the other hand you come away full of admiration for the management and everybody concerned. No matter what your scruples may be you need not hesitate about visiting charming Grasmere on the celebration of its yearly carnival. Apart from the contests themselves there is plenty to feast the eyes upon. On the long drive from Winter-morn you see all kinds of turnouts. Every horse and usable vehicle for miles around must have been requisitioned, and all roads apparently led to "Pavement End." The field was surrounded by family coaches and other carriages, on every one of which was a happy picnic party. It reminded one of Goodwood, Ascot, or Epsom Downs, and it was indeed a lively sight. Well-filled luncheon baskets played no inconsiderable part in the programme, and it was not a little amusing to see "James" busy at the back of a drag with the remnants of a few after the "Squire" and his companions had got their wants fully satisfied. And you do get an appetite, braced by the fresh heath-scented mountain air.

DICK THE BELLMAN.
The Grasmere gathering would be incomplete without the presence of certain noted characters.
One of these is Dick Howe, who as bellman has played a prominent figure at the sports for the past 30 years. It is his business to keep the crowd informed of what is going to take place next, and he does this in the true northern dialect, his language sounding very odd to strangers to the locality. In the event of a competitor failing to answer Dick's summons his name is called out three times. Should he be absent the bellman announces that he is "blown out!" This formality and the style in which the announcement was made tickled the crowd, and led to many pleasantries between Dick and some of the jokers around. "Is Charlie Lowe for Preston here?" was one of the bellman's inquiries. A wag near at hand ventured to answer in the affirmative. "Wasar he?" cried Dick. As there was no appearance of "Lowe" to Preston the usual call was thrice repeated, the hoary-headed official following it up with the clincher directed at the wag.
"He must stop there." Later on he went the round of the field with the declaration, "First round over; second about to begin." "Over" proved a puzzle to many. It was Dick's way of declaring that the first round of the heavy weight wrestling had terminated and the second would soon be in progress. It needed such announcements as this, the great bulk of the visitors being frequently in a maze as to what was coming on next.

TWO INTERESTING EVENTS.
It may be said with safety that two of the day's events interested everybody, these being the hound trail and the race up Silver How.
The competition between the dogs was positively unique to the greater proportion of the five or six thousand persons within the enclosure.
A more picturesque event one rarely sees. Before the eighteen foxhounds were sent on their journey a man came on the field dragging behind him a bag of mixed. With this he had laid a trail of some eight miles over the top of Silver How and the Hammer Scar, across to Longrigg, White Moss, and Chapel Green, over Hollins, under Butter Crag, along Dunnall Dale and Sore Crag, through Allen Bank field to the finish under Wray's Breast. Before they were despatched on their toilsome journey the dogs pulled and strained in the hands of the men in charge, and when they were liberated they bayed their delight. It was a stirring sight to follow them in their trying, course up the mountain side, and they soon looked like tiny insects in the fading distance. The leaders seemed to have no difficulty in keeping to the scent, but most of the hounds were baying along some distance behind. When they came in view on the other side of the valley three hounds were seen well ahead, and when Robinson's "Comrade" finally came in winner in 37 min.

17 sec., there was a great outburst of cheering.
The band struck up the hunting song, "Daisy Ken John Peelt" and the proud owner beamed with as much satisfaction as did the Prince of Wales when he led in his Derby victor.

UP SILVER HOW.
Most visitors to the Lake district have heard of Tom Conchie. He easily holds first place in the esteem of many of the natives. Since 1894 Tom had never been defeated until last year in the guides' race to the summit of Silver How and back. Owing to illness he could not compete in 1898, when Tom Taylor came in first.
He repeated his success last year, and later on again defeated Conchie over the same course in a match for a big stake. Taylor is now with the troops in South Africa, and the old runner had no difficulty in stalling off all opposition.
Conchie is a quarry worker, and as he is daily climbing the hills on the way to his employment he may be said to be always in the best condition. There were thirteen entries, but none of the "bakers' dozen" got near Conchie, except Rogerson, of Over Stareley, who was a very creditable second. It was in dashing down Silver How that the old athlete excelled, evidently knowing no fear. He rushed into the circle with a warwhoop, and when he was told he had covered the distance (about two miles) in 15 min. 7 sec., he was well satisfied, for he had found the going extremely heavy after the rainfall early in the day. Taylor holds the record of 14 min 25 sec. Some of the runners returned with their legs bleeding from contact with the brambles and climbing over stone walls. None but the sturdiest should engage in such a contest as the race up Silver How.

A CHAMPION'S FAREWELL.
While Dick Howe is as we have seen, a famous character at Grasmere sports, his fame is quite overshadowed by that of the grand old heavy-weight wrestler, George Steadman. He has made his last public appearance at the last festival in the present century, and he goes into retirement with a wonderful record. George has wrestled in competitions ever since he was sixteen years old and as he is now 54 he has had a pretty long innings. He has won no fewer than 60 cps and has practically travelled and competed all over the world. It was about 1870 that Steadman proved his superiority by beating such noted dalemen as the ponderous Jamieson, Dick Wright (now both dead), and Noble Ewenk, who was acting as one of the judges.
Remembering his years and his 18st. 7lbs. of avoidpoids it was a big strain for George to go through five rounds before qualifying for the final. It was not a little singular that the slimmest of his antagonists gave him the most trouble. This was Will Studholme, of Broughton, in the second round. The skill and tricks of the younger man worked the crowd up to a high pitch of excitement, and "Wall" was repeatedly urged to "hold on." The severity of the long-drawn out bout was plainly to be seen when at the close of a vain struggle for the mastery Studholme sank on the turf completely exhausted. The old champion stood with his hands on his hips, puffing and blowing, while a merry smile played on his good-humoured face. When ultimately Studholme was grasped off the breast and outside stroke he had a magnificent ovation, quite as hearty as that which greeted his conqueror. That the last-named had his work cut out was evident from his remark that "these young boulders will kill me yet." In the final Steadman was pitted against last year's victor, Hexham Clarke.
The latter is admittedly the best exponent of scientific wrestling, but the bulk of the leviathan was too much for him, and by taking the first and third of the three throws Steadman carried off the first prize of £15 and a silver belt. He subsequently asked the members of the Press to make it known that it was his final appearance in the ring. It is to be hoped he will not imitate Sims Reeves and bid farewell to the public every year.

SEVEN BROTHERS.
The game of cricket runs in families in a way that is not equalled by any other branch of sport. Certain families of note have taken to cricket like a duck takes to water. Of some of our great batsmen it has been said that they were reared with a bat in the cradle. There is no doubt that they began making runs directly they were able to totter about. Many stories are told of how much famous players have been indebted to the female members of their household, but unfortunately these fascinating stories will not always bear strict investigation. Take the case of the Walker family, for instance.
There were seven brothers, and no fewer than six of them played in the Gents v. Players matches, all the half-dozen making great reputations. There was a belief that the girls of this wonderful family—five of them—were enthusiastic cricketers, who bowled round arm to their brothers. But this was a myth, ac-

A HELPLESS CRIPPLE!
N. Bengert, of Norborne, says:—For nineteen months I lay a helpless cripple from Rheumatism.
The weight of my body was reduced from 170 lbs. to 130 lbs., a proof of the terrible pain I had to endure. During all this time, I sought a cure, but after using everything I heard of, such as medicines, electricity, Turkish Baths, and above all unsolicited employing physicians, I considered myself incurable, especially so, when the last physician told me that he would not accept any more money from me, as the case was beyond the human grasp. At this time I noticed your advertisement in one of the morning papers. I ordered Little's Oriental Balm with very little hesitation, but I was surprised after using 2 to 3 bottles. I was greatly improved and the continued use of your wonderful remedy cured me.
For my part I shall do all in my power to spread its merits. Sold at 1s. 1 per bottle.

DISPENSARY, LD. 1888-1 according to Mr. W. A. Bettsworth, who has just issued a book, entitled "The Walkers of Southgate," that has received a very cordial welcome. We have had many celebrated to the brotherhood as cricketers, such as the Graeco, the Lytteltons, the Strads, and the Stools, but as a whole they have not come up to the Walkers, of whom, as we have seen, there were no fewer than seven. Their names were John, Alfred, Frederic, Arthur Henry, Vyell Edward, Russell Donithorne, and Isaac Donithorne, V. E. R. D. and I. D. were familiar figures on the "fented field," the last-named being perhaps the best known as captain of the Middlesex County eleven, and also for his active association, together with Mr. A. J. Webb and others, with the Harrow Wanderers. I. D. discarded such aids as pads and leg guards, and it has been well said of him as he proceeded to the wickets that he carried his bat in such a way that he thought it a pity he could not leave it behind as well as the guards and hand protectors. But whilst he was on the scent the bowlers and fieldsmen invariably knew it, for he could make runs with great skill, and was a hard man to get out.

"WHO MIGHT HE BE?"
R. D. Walker was a batsman of another class, but just as dangerous when once set. His style was not one that would serve as a model for budding aspirants, but it was often very effective. Cricket writers have latterly shown a weakness for talking about the "hook" stroke.
Why they should have discovered it so recently is a bit of a puzzle, because it has been in use ever since I knew what cricket was. In fact, some players who do not pretend to have a place in the first class make precious few runs in any other way. R. D. Walker, when playing for Middlesex against Yorkshire, once lost his wicket immediately in attempting to "hook" a ball from a slow bowler. He did this in such a country-like fashion that the wicket-keeper, sturdy old George Pinder—who has lately been prostrated by sickness—was tempted to ask, "And who might he be?" Great was the Yorkshireman's astonishment when the reply came, "Why, that's Mr. R. D. W!" "You don't say so!" exclaimed the ponderous custodian;
"Why, he don't seem to understand the rail-ments of the game!"

A MODEL CAPTAIN.
As I have already pointed out, six of this band of brothers appeared in the classical contest of the year. Both R. D. and I. D. were talented cricketers, and the name of the latter appears in the averages for the long period stretching from 1884 to 1891. Alfred is described as the hitter, but John, the eldest of the seven, was smart both as wicketkeeper, fieldman, bowler and batsman. V. E. is spoken of by Mr. Bettsworth as the "greatest cricketer of his time." His light was only dimmed by the appearance on the horizon of the greater W. G. Grace. Vyell Edward excelled in every department, and to these qualities may be added that of being a captain "to the manner born." His friends said of him that he "never worried a man" a splendid qualification when we know how sorely a captain is tried at times.
He was one of very few skippers who could even see a catch missed without making a fuss about it. Whether he could have stood seeing the seven missed by Middlesex—his own countrymen—during their last match with Surrey without losing his temper must be left to the imagination; it was certainly a wretched performance. We are told that when a fielder blundered it was his kindly habit to go up to the erring player and apply balm to his wounds with the kindly remark, "Well tried, old chap." No one else would have got near the ball. No wonder that he was idolised by the men under his command.
